Dear U.S. Dept. of Labor et al,

I am against any government takeover or management of retirement accounts, such as 401(k) accounts, belonging to U.S. citizens.

This would be in direct violation of the rights of citizens to manage their money as they see fit. There is no need for a takeover, since Americans have been managing these accounts on their own with no problems. The more the government is involved in the banking system, the more problems it creates.

Sincerely,

Kelley Nielsen
